How to Say

McLaughlin

GB British

muh-KLAHK-lin

IPA: mə'klɒk.lɪn

The 'Mc' prefix is typically pronounced with a 'muh' sound, and the 'laugh' part is pronounced like 'lock' in both American and British English. The 'lin' at the end is like 'Lynn'.

The truth is....

Not all courses have an exam or lead to certifications!!!

And some courses are...
Let's say there is room for improvement.

What about Copilot?

Asking Copilot to optimize the course

I took all the PowerPoint decks for the course and uploaded them into Copilot.

- My prompt: Based on all these slide decks, help me deliver this class using a story so that the flow makes better sense to learners.

And Copilot's response?

- “This course is very disjointed and may be difficult for learners to follow without a structured narrative.”

But here's where it got interesting...

- It reorganized the delivery into a story-based journey for a fictitious company, connecting concepts in a way that made instructional sense.

- ✓ Build understanding
- ✓ Create continuity
- ✓ Reinforce conceptual flow
- ✓ Connect the why behind the what
